

ZERO HUNGER INTERNSHIP

Summer 2022 Internship Application Guide

Introduction

Thank you for your interest in the Zero Hunger Internship, a leadership development program of the Congressional Hunger Center.

We launched the Zero Hunger Internship in 2018 with support from the Sodexo stop Hunger Foundation to build the knowledge and leadership skills of the next generation of young people who will end hunger by 2030. Along with the Bill Emerson National and Mickey Leland International Hunger Fellowships, this internship supports our mission of developing, inspiring, and connecting leaders in the movement to end hunger, and advocating for public policies that create a food secure world.

The COVID-19 pandemic has dramatically increased the need for food assistance in the United States and around the world. You will see first-hand how organizations are working to eradicate hunger and its root causes on a national and global scale, using policy as a tool to create change. With your cohort of fellow interns, you will sharpen your leadership skills and gain subject matter and advocacy expertise through the Summer Seminars. You will end the summer with the confidence, skills, and knowledge to be an effective anti-hunger advocate in your hometown community.

I hope you believe, like we do, that in a moment of crisis, a movement of dedicated and passionate people can build a better future for their communities—and that you will join us to do just that.

In service,

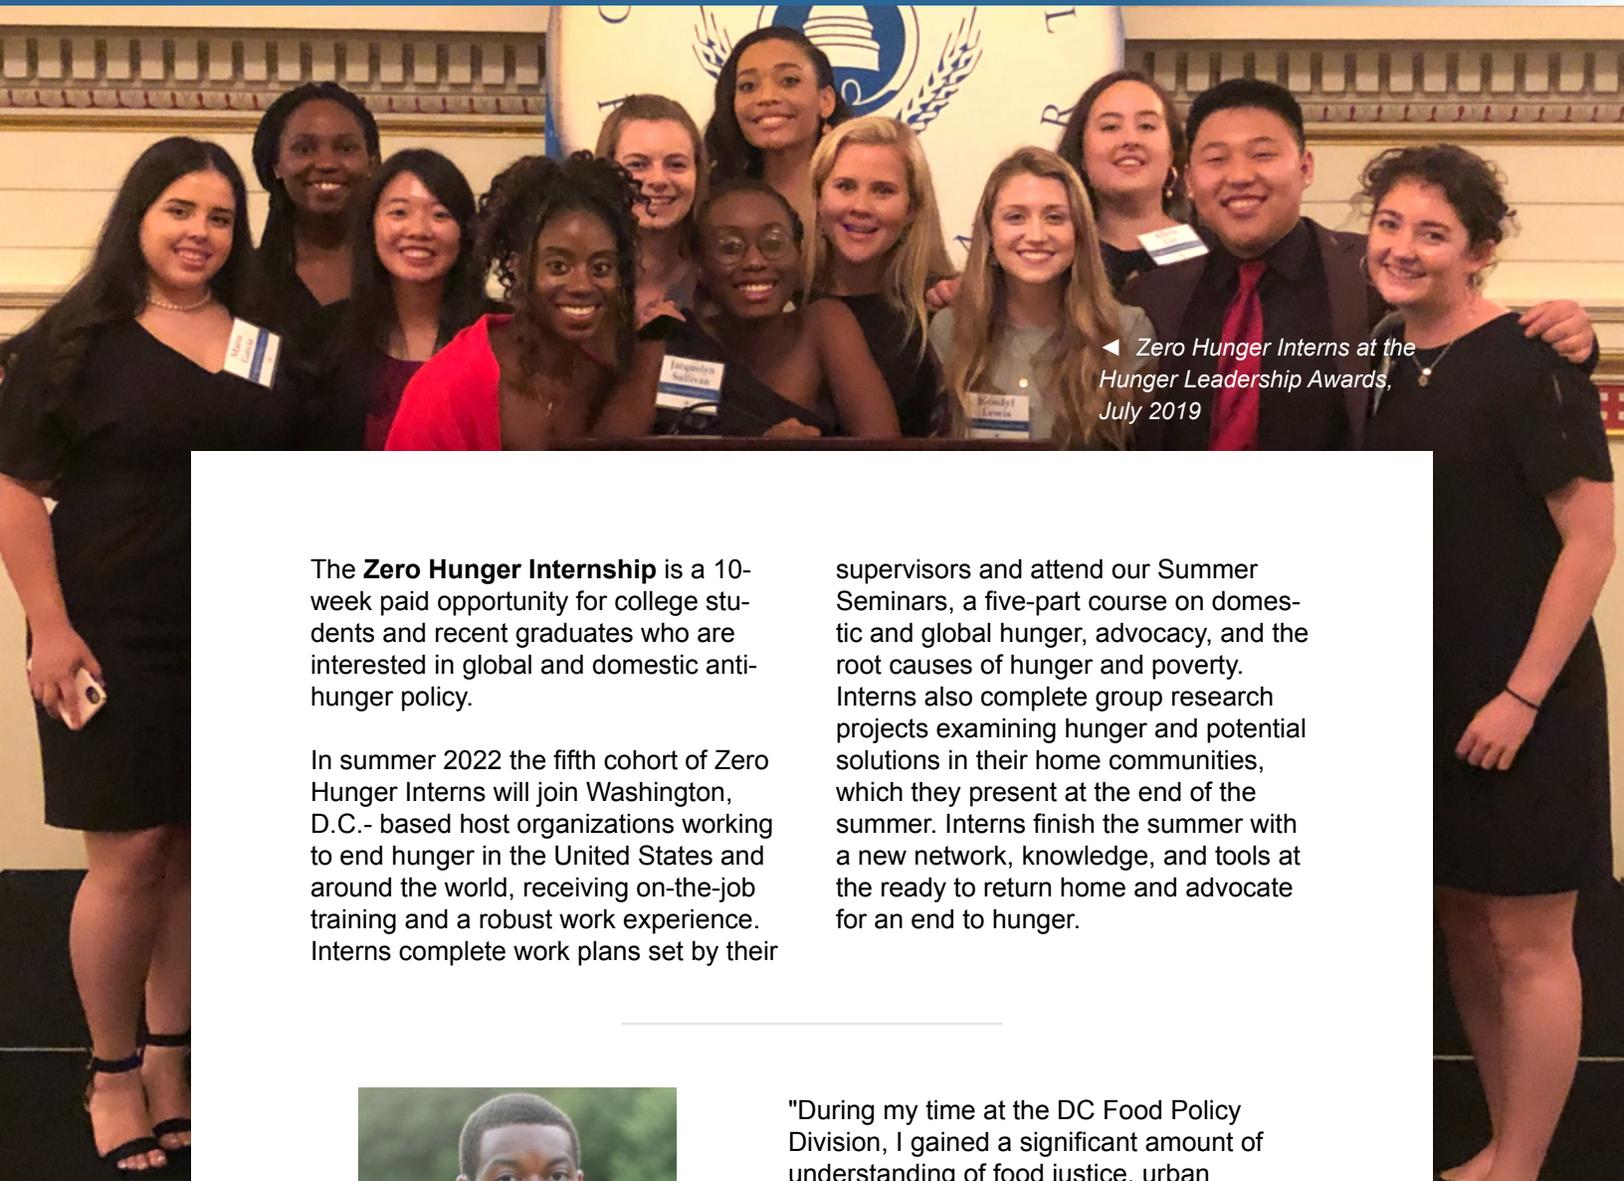

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Samantha Stevens".

Samantha Stevens

Manager, Policy and Strategic Initiatives
Congressional Hunger Center

▲ Zero Hunger Intern Chido Shamuyarira ('19) delivers a research presentation

How Does the Internship Work?

◀ Zero Hunger Interns at the Hunger Leadership Awards, July 2019

The Zero Hunger Internship is a 10-week paid opportunity for college students and recent graduates who are interested in global and domestic anti-hunger policy.

In summer 2022 the fifth cohort of Zero Hunger Interns will join Washington, D.C.- based host organizations working to end hunger in the United States and around the world, receiving on-the-job training and a robust work experience. Interns complete work plans set by their supervisors and attend our Summer Seminars, a five-part course on domestic and global hunger, advocacy, and the root causes of hunger and poverty. Interns also complete group research projects examining hunger and potential solutions in their home communities, which they present at the end of the summer. Interns finish the summer with a new network, knowledge, and tools at the ready to return home and advocate for an end to hunger.

"During my time at the DC Food Policy Division, I gained a significant amount of understanding of food justice, urban agriculture, and different methodologies that are out there to fight hunger. At the same time, I gained the resources and knowledge that will aid me as I continue my advocacy work. I will recommend the Zero Hunger Internship Program to anyone who believes that hunger is a problem that has to be eradicated...."

Kibiriti Majuto ('21)

2022 PROGRAM CALENDAR

December 2021 — January 2022

Apply to the Zero Hunger Internship. Application deadline is February 15, 2022.

March

Program staff contact candidates for interviews.

March — April

- Receive notification that you have been accepted
- Contact your host organization and set start and end dates for your 10-week internship
- Secure summer housing in Washington

May 23

Earliest date to begin internship.

June 11, 2022 — July 30, 2022

Core Program Dates

(all interns must be present for this period)

- Complete work plan with host organization
- Attend Summer Seminars
- Complete and present research project

August 5

Latest date to finish internship.

August and Afterwards

Emerge as an experienced anti-hunger advocate, ready to work to end hunger in your community and beyond!

WORKING AND LEARNING

You will learn about hunger and develop as a leader through four program components:

1 INTERNSHIP PLACEMENT

The Hunger Center will match you with a host organization working on global or domestic anti-hunger policy. Host organizations are selected through a competitive process and supervise your day-to-day work. Interns and host organizations are matched based on the needs of the organization and the professional interests and skills of the intern. While supporting their host organizations, interns gain first-hand experience with program implementation, development and fundraising, policy analysis, communications, or nonprofit operations.

2 LEADERSHIP CAPABILITIES

Our Leadership Capabilities model is the foundation of our leadership development trainings. The core capabilities of a leader fall into three distinct but interrelated categories that build on and reinforce one another: develop self, lead with others, and create change. Zero Hunger Interns develop these capabilities through partner exercises, cohort learning activities, and through the Summer Seminars.

Learn more about the Leadership Capabilities.

"The Zero Hunger Internship provided opportunities for me to expand my knowledge of the root causes of poverty and food insecurity. This not only helped me be effective in my work throughout the summer, but helped me be more introspective about my personal situation. Knowing how and why my hometown is affected by these issues is an integral part of solving the issue of poverty, hunger, and food insecurity."

Emma Peterson ('20)

SUMMER SEMINARS

You will expand your knowledge of domestic and global hunger, public policy, and advocacy through the Summer Seminars. During these five half-day sessions, you will learn directly from content experts; participate in lectures, learning simulations, and group discussions; and network with professionals and fellow interns. Sessions also include trainings on professional and leadership development topics.

RESEARCHING HUNGER

Translating what you learn in Washington to your local context is a key component of the Zero Hunger Internship. You will complete a group research project about a hunger problem in your community and present policy solutions before an audience. After you complete your internship, you will be able to use what you have learned to advocate for an end to hunger wherever you are.

- ▲ Hunger Center staff at an advocacy event at the U.S. Capitol.
- ◀ A session of the 2019 Zero Hunger Summer Seminars.

BENEFITS

Coming to Washington, D.C., for an internship can be a life-changing experience. Below are some of the benefits of becoming a Zero Hunger Intern.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT

You will receive a stipend of up to $5,600 to offset the cost of living in Washington, D.C., for ten weeks. The Hunger Center will also pay for your transportation to and from Washington at the start and end of the summer (departure and arrival destinations must be within the United States).

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Considering pursuing a Master of Public Policy degree? Zero Hunger Interns who successfully complete the 10-week internship are eligible for significant discounts on tuition at the University of Virginia Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy. Learn more about this partnership.

SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE

You will grow as a professional through on-the-job training at your host organization, advancing your team's work to end hunger in the U.S. or globally. You will also develop new skills and knowledge through the Summer Seminars and other professional development opportunities.

NETWORK

Our cohort learning model is central to the internship experience. Your fellow Zero Hunger Interns share your passion and dedication to ending hunger, and you will share your experiences and learn from one another throughout the summer and beyond.

FRANK BATTEN SCHOOL of LEADERSHIP and PUBLIC POLICY

"The most important thing I got from the internship is the network and resources. I've learned about and met a lot of organizations and people who are in this space and are willing to answer questions and connect me with resources for my home community."

Hui Ling Chen ('19)

How Do I Apply?

If you are ready to come to Washington, carefully review the following pages to prepare your application. All applications must be submitted on our website by February 15, 2022.

AM I ELIGIBLE?

All applicants must be current undergraduate students or recent college graduates. (A recent graduate is someone who attained their undergraduate degree in December 2021 or later.)

All applicants must be U.S. citizens, or have authorization to work in the United States beginning no later than June 2022.

HOW LONG DOES THE INTERNSHIP RUN?

All internships last 10 weeks with start and end dates that are mutually agreed upon by the intern and the host organization and approved by the Hunger Center. Internships may start any time between May 23 and June 11, 2022, and end between July 30 and August 5, 2022, provided the total length of the internship is 10 weeks.

WHAT ARE THE PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS?

Interns are required to work full time at their host organizations during usual business hours. Exceptions will not be made for students who wish to enroll in a summer class, get a part-time job or any other obligation that would prevent the intern from supporting the host organization during usual business hours.

Interns are required to relocate to Washington, D.C. for summer 2022 to participate in this program.

Interns may be required to provide proof of vaccination against Coronavirus and must follow Hunger Center and host organization COVID-19 guidance (e.g. masking, social distancing) as directed.

WHO WE ARE LOOKING FOR

Do these statements describe you? If so, you may be a great fit for the Zero Hunger Internship:

I am committed to food and nutrition security.

Many interns have completed coursework or volunteer experience addressing hunger in their communities. Many may also have personal experience with hunger and poverty.

I want to be an agent of change.

We cannot end hunger without new ways of thinking. Successful interns are creative, committed, and ready to learn about scalable and sustainable solutions to hunger.

I am flexible.

Successful interns can change plans and adapt to new scenarios and new work environments. Moreover, it can be challenging to move to a new city for 10 weeks. We are looking for people who are excited to live in Washington, D.C., for a full-time summer internship.

I am committed to racial equity.

We believe that no solution to hunger will succeed without leadership from people who are disproportionately affected by hunger and poverty, especially people of color.

I am a critical thinker with strong communication skills.

Work plans are challenging and will test an intern's ability to evaluate and solve problems on their own. Interns must be able to ask questions and work independently.

I have a learning mindset.

You get out of an internship what you put in. The Zero Hunger Internship provides many outlets for professional and personal growth; successful interns are able to make the most of them.

TIMELINE FOR APPLICATIONS

Read this guide completely.

If you have questions not covered in this guide, contact us at zerohunger@hungercenter.org

Complete the online application by February 15, 2022.

The application consists of several short-answer essay questions and a short writing test, and requires a one-page resume. Completing the application will take three to four hours. Check out our website to find helpful tips for making your application shine.

Hunger Center staff review your application.

Candidates complete online interviews in March.

You've been accepted into the Zero Hunger Internship!

Expect to receive a notification and your host organization assignment in March or April.

Prepare for the summer.

Once you have accepted your offer, start looking for summer housing in Washington, D.C., and set your start and end dates with your host organization.

Begin your internship by June 11, 2022!

Frequently Asked Questions

◀ Zero Hunger Interns Katie Waeldner and Kristina Benjamin at the 2019 Hunger Leadership Awards.

Do I get to pick my host organization?

No. The Hunger Center matches Zero Hunger Interns with host organizations, balancing the needs of the host organization with the experience, skills, interests, and geographic preferences of the intern.

Does the Hunger Center provide housing for interns?

No. The Hunger Center provides interns with a stipend of up to $5,600 to help offset living expenses, including housing, in Washington, D.C., for 10 weeks. Interns find and secure their own housing.

Can non-U.S. citizens apply for this program?

Yes. However, program participants must be authorized to work in the United States. The Hunger Center does not support applicant visas; the applicant must have work authorization that is valid for a ten-week period for summer 2022.

Are Zero Hunger Interns employees of the Congressional Hunger Center?

No. You will be a 1099 contractor and will have to pay taxes on your income from the summer.

My question wasn't answered in this guide. What should I do?

Let us know! Drop us a line at zerohunger@hungercenter.org and we will be happy to assist you with your question.

ABOUT THE HUNGER CENTER'S APPROACH

Hunger is a multifaceted and far-reaching problem—and the movement to end it should be, too.

We believe that governments, nonprofits, educational institutions, corporations, philanthropy, and individuals all have a role to play, and a variety of approaches and strategies are required to solve the problem.

Any lasting solution to hunger must be led by people with first-hand expertise.

We invest in the leadership of people who have experienced hunger and poverty and people of color—who are disproportionately affected by hunger—as designers, implementers, and evaluators of anti-hunger programs and projects.

Breakdowns in understanding and differences in perspective on the root causes of the problem stand in the way of scalable solutions.

We focus on bridging the gap between community-based work and public policy, highlighting the ways that each can inform and strengthen the other.

Read more about our approach.

The Zero Hunger Internship is made possible by the generous support of the Sodexo Stop Hunger Foundation. A partner and supporter of the Congressional Hunger Center since 2000, the Sodexo Stop Hunger Foundation's mission is to ensure every child in the U.S. grows up with dependable access to enough nutritious food to enable them to lead a healthy, productive life. The foundation mobilizes experts, innovators, volunteers, and donors to feed children in the U.S. today and advocate for policies that ensure no child is hungry again tomorrow. Learn more here.

▼ Kristina Benjamin ('19)
presents her summer research project.

Congressional Hunger Center

200 Massachusetts Ave NW 7th Floor

Washington DC 20001

www.hungercenter.org

 (202) 547-7022

 (202) 547-7575

Have questions not covered by this guide?
Contact us at zerohunger@hungercenter.org

Background photos on pages 4 and 5 courtesy Andy Feliciotti.

Background photos on pages 8 and 9 courtesy Caleb Wright.

Background photo on page 10 courtesy Sonder Quest.

Cover Photo: Zero Hunger Interns attend the commencement ceremony for the 25th Class of Emerson National Hunger Fellows.

Icons courtesy Font Awesome under CC BY 4.0 License

© 2021 Congressional Hunger Center

This edition first published 12/17/2021